Hi, I'm Frank. Before I started school, my father told me and my twin brother Evan to watch out for bullies and make sure we always help each other.

About a week after school began, Evan told me that there was a bully on the school bus. He was another boy from school. I wanted to protect Evan, so I went to hit the boy on the school bus. I thought he was being unkind to my brother.

My mom found out what had happened. She asked the other moms if they knew any bully in the school and left her phone number. A mom called my mom and said her son Tim got off the school bus crying but wouldn't say why.

It was a big misunderstanding! It turned out that her son Tim had accidentally pushed Evan and didn't say "_____". Evan thought Tim bullied him and ran to me. Then I hit the poor boy!

So my mom asked Tim's mom if we could all get together, and she offered to buy Tim ice cream since I was in fact the "real bully". We all became good friends after that silly misunderstanding.

Bullying is never right. I hope this story reminds you to check the facts before taking action.
